

A black and white line drawing of a torn envelope. The envelope is open, with its flaps and various pieces of paper visible. The background is filled with a complex geometric pattern of overlapping triangles and polygons. Several stylized flowers, including tulips and daisies, are scattered throughout the design. The text "I RELEASE WHAT DOESN'T SERVE ME" is written in a bold, outlined font across the center of the envelope.

I RELEASE
WHAT DOESN'T SERVE
ME
